I am a mother of two, a son who attends Russell Hall in year 1 and a daughter who has just turned two. I am currently a newly qualified teacher, specialising in Computer Science and ICT. My job is amazing and I am one of the lucky few who gets to skip into work every day, seeing children progress and having mini 'lightbulb' moments is inspirational, and in the words of Busted, "It's what I go to school for".

I have decided to become a parent governor simply because I want to be a part of Russell Hall, my son is absolutely flourishing in this establishment and he's always so excited to come to school – which makes my job as a mother fairly straight forward! Since he started in reception, I have witnessed a multitude of positive changes and I am looking forward to seeing the school continue to move forward.

Being a mother, and teaching takes up a great proportion of my time, but when I'm not marking or lesson planning I love to lounge in front of the television and watch a variety of series'; Prison Break and The Walking Dead are firm favourites! I also love to read, although it has been a while since I've read anything that doesn't involve Dinosaurs that poop or a family of pigs!
