World Book Day

At Russell Hall, we celebrated World Book Day in lots of different ways. We dressed up as a school and celebrated with a whole school assembly. Mrs Smith spoke to us about her favourite book from when she was in primary school and we talked about all the different places we could read. We had to guess which teacher was hiding behind the mask in 'Russell Hall's The Masked Reader' and had a competition to design different book covers for the school library.

"I really liked that the teachers dressed as characters from our class book." Ava
